SAFE DEPOSITORIES IN THE UNITED STATES.

Prominent, if not foremost, among the many modern improvements in business methods, we have good cause to rank what have become well-known in New-York, and the Eastern States, as "Safe Depositories."

Of the object, responsibility and modus operandi of these institutions, our citizens, in general, are well informed; there being a number of them in New-York, Philadelphia, Boston, and other commercial communities, doing a large and increasing business, sustained by capitalists, and patronized by a multitude of mercantile men and leading citizens.

We propose, now, to give a brief account of one recently established in Chicago, well worthy of a more extended notice.

After a careful inspection of the depositories in this city and Philadelphia, THOMAS B. BRYAN. Esq., a prominent capitalist of Chicago, decided to establish one in that city, with a capacity adequate to the rapidly increasing wants of the great north-western metropolis.

Accordingly, he has erected (entirely at his own expense) a suitable fire-proof building, directly opposite the City Hall and Police head-quarters, upon Randolph street; and has built within it a column of four vaults, so high and massive that no falling wall of adjacent buildings, nor any other calamity incident to large conflagrations, can by any means disturb it or effect its safeguards.

In one of these vaults—which is lined with alternate layers of steel and iron plates, bolted together, (two and three-quarters inches thick), in addition to the massive masonry, is a burglar-proof safe of the largest dimensions—a safe within a safe. It has the most approved bank combination locks; and is constructed for the custody of Government securities and miscellaneous bonds, and for wills and documents of special value, which the Depository must render to the owners upon demand.

This vault has two doors—an outer and an inner one—of immense weight, and about two feet apart. The inner has a lock which would defy the most skillful HOBBS that ever hob-nobbed at a safe door. The outer is doubly-armed in this respect,—having two of the most recent and unpickable combination locks; with billions of changes, in charge of two officers, neither of whom can enter without the co-operation of the other: thus preventing any one having access to the vault alone—a precaution rigidly observed in all the visits to this safe; the president himself not being allowed an entrance unaccompanied by the guard, or custodian.

This column of four safety vaults, composed of and supported by the strongest and most substantial masonry, is enclosed in a five story marble building, fire-proof throughout. The basement is a complete citadel. The main walls of massive masonry enclose what, at first glance, appears like one marble edifice within another. The inner structure is, in fact, an intermural vault, occupying two-thirds of the entire basement, and having an iron ceiling, arched in a manner that would render it perfectly secure against any superincumbent pressure, however great. It is well ventilated; has fire and burglar-proof doors, and serves admirably its purpose—the custody of bulky valuables, such as trunks, valises, boxes, etc., containing family plate, laces, and other costly articles, for ornament or use; which in private residences tempt the unscrupulous depredator to robbery and murder. Of course, the utility of such a vault is well understood in this city, and we suppose that robberies are sufficiently common in Chicago to render it quite a desirable security there, also. In New-York and Philadelphia, the custom of storing family plate, jewelry, etc., in the Safe depositories has been as general as subscribing to the newspapers; hence, the great decrease in the number and extent of burglaries.

The "CHICAGO FIDELITY SAFE DEPOSITORY" is judiciously located to ensure its security, on a great thoroughfare, and only a few rods from the Court-House, in the basement of which the police "are wont to congregate," within sound of the first vibration of the huge burglar-alarm which is attached by magnetic connections to every window and door in the building.

The new depository is an elegant and showy structure, admirably lighted through its ample windows and glass-doors, and presenting its interior fully to the view of all passing.

Let us look in. The first object is a bronzed iron grating, rising from the encaustic tiles to the concaved iron ceiling, eighteen feet above. This partition has a pleasing appearance, notwithstanding its great strength and all its bolts and bars; being interspersed with scroll-work, and symmetrical variations in the shaping of its material, and lightened up to the eye by the skill of the artist. It has a double and a single gate for the entry of customers, and the officers of the institution; but neither the gates, nor the railing, offer any obstruction to the view, without or within.

A special policeman stands guard at these gates.

The renters of the numerous small safes, in the main vault, are provided with alcoves and are well supplied with stationery, in an extensive room in the rear, but quite convenient to the vault, and as well lighted as if in front. In any one of these alcoves the customer may examine his documents, money and securities, as free from observation as if in his own private office.

As is the case in other institutions of the same kind, the Chicago depository keeps a personal description of every customer, with his secret password, and he or she (for they include ladies as well as gentlemen), is admitted into the vault by the secretary, or other officer. This—together with the reference, password, and other identification—is a sufficient precaution against a misuse of the safe, and renders it utterly impossible for any member to infringe upon the rights of others in the depository.

It is intended that the entire building shall be devoted to the business of the "GUARANTEE AND INVESTMENT ASSOCIATION," and the Depository branch; hence we find the second floor divided into two spacious offices, in one of which is another large safety vault, for the use of the Company's Fiduciary and Executory department, with its appropriate complement of counsellors, notaries and clerks, under the immediate direction of the president, whose legal attainments and long experience in the management of estates and executory trusts, have obtained for him such a reputation in Chicago and throughout Illinois, as cannot fail to augment very materially the patronage to be received by the Company in this important branch of their operations.

After having completed the massive building which we have briefly described, its owner accepted the proposal of a number of capitalists to consolidate with his enterprise an unorganized one of their own, looking to the execution of fiduciary trusts, investments, loans, etc., and a joint stock company was the result of the fusion of these two schemes, under a special charter, the provisions of which enable the company to furnish an absolute guarantee to capitalists for the payment of both principal and interest of all loans negotiated by them,—thus allowing Eastern lenders to avail themselves of the prevailing high rates of interest, at the west, with absolute security.

As "brief chroniclers of the time" (and to some extent the accepted organ of financial enterprise throughout the United States), the editors of the BANKERS' MAGAZINE extend a cordial welcome to all the associations for the protection of bonded securities and other valuables. They are among the valuable institutions of the day, and are admirably calculated for the defence of the capitalist—no bondholder need now have his property at risk.

Among the institutions of this kind, now in operation, are the following:

I. The "Safe Deposit Company of New-York," Nos. 144–146 Broadway; Capital, $100,000; President, F. H. JENKS; Secretary, FREDERICK FOSTER. This was the first Company that was chartered for the purpose of taking charge of public securities on a commission, and has been quite successful.

II. The "Stuyvesant Safe Deposit Company," Third Avenue, New-York.

III. The "Mercantile Loan and Warehouse Company"—in the Equitable Insurance building, corner of Broadway and Cedar street. Chartered, 1870.

IV. The "NATIONAL PARK BANK" vaults, Nos. 214–216 Broadway. The safe deposits here are guaranteed by the capital of the bank, $2,000,000.

Messrs. BALL, BLACK & Co., No. 563 Broadway, jewelers, have also extensive arrangements for the deposit of private securities in their fire-proof building.

In PHILADELPHIA, the "Fidelity Insurance and Safe Deposit Company," Nos. 329–331 Chesnut street; President, N. B. BROWNE, Vice-President, CLARENCE H. CLARK; Secretary and Treasurer, ROBERT PATTERSON; Capital subscribed, $1,000,000; Paid in; $700,000. Coupon bonds, stocks, securities, family plate, coin, deeds, and valuables of every description received for safe-keeping, under guarantee, at very moderate rates. The Company also rent safes inside their burglar-proof vaults, at prices varying from fifteen to seventy-five dollars a year, according to size. An extra size for corporations and bankers. Rooms and desks adjoining vaults provided for safe-renters. The Company act as executors, administrators and guardians, and receive and execute trusts of every description, from the courts, corporations and individuals. Trust funds and investments kept separate from assets of Company.

In BOSTON, the "Union Safe Deposit Vaults," in State street, afford ample safety for protection against burglars and thieves; the charge being only $1 to $2 per thousand, annually.

XVII.—The Duties of Notaries.

Commercial Bank of Kentucky vs. Varnum.—Barkesdale & Co., of St. Louis, drew a bill of exchange on the ParkBank payable at four months to the order of John F. Darby. Darby indorsed it over to the plaintiff, who forwarded it to their correspondent, the Metropolitan Bank of this city, for collection. The Metropolitan Bank placed the bill in the hands of their notary, Mr. Varnum, for presentment. He did not himself present it, but sent it by his partner, Mr. Turney, for presentment. Barkesdale & Co. being insolvent, payment was refused. Mr. Varnum made out the usual protest and sent out the usual notices. The plaintiff, seeking recourse against the indorser, was met by the defence that the presentment and demand were not made by a notary, and on this ground defeated. They then sued the notary for malfeasance in office, laying their damages at their loss. The court below found for the plaintiff, holding that in the case of foreign drafts the notary himself must present, though in the case of inland drafts the clerk may act for him. The defendant appeals, claiming that this was not a foreign draft in the sense claimed by the plaintiff, and that custom equally sanctioned the presentment of foreign and inland drafts by the clerk of the notary; and that in any case the Metropolitan Bank, and not its notary, were primarily responsible.

XVIII.—Liability to Contribution by Indorsers.

In a late case of Mitchell vs. English, Grant's Chan. Rep. Vol. XVII, 303, a bill was filed by the assignee of an accommodation indorser against a subsequent accommodation indorser, to enforce contribution by the latter toward the amount which such prior indorser had been obliged to pay to retire such note. The Court recognized the law as well established that co-sureties for the same debts are liable to mutual contribution, although they might contract independently, and indeed without knowledge of each other; and that accommodation indorsers of a negotiable security are to be considered as co-sureties irrespective of the order of their liability on the instrument itself; still it was held that every surety does not necessarily undertake an equal liability with other sureties for the same debt, and that while he will be presumed to do so in the absence of any limitation of his liability, there is nothing to prevent him from qualifying this by contract. In this case it was held that the defendant having stipulated that he should only be liable in default of the other indorsers, the plaintiff could not make him contribute, and his bill was dismissed with costs.

XIX.—Payment of Checks.

Our banks, in paying checks, cannot be too particular about having an identification of the parties to whom the money is paid. A rule long ago established by our Boston banks requires the paying-tellers to make themselves sure in all cases that the money which they disburse upon checks goes into the hands of parties known at the banks, either from direct acquaintance, or through an introduction by well-known persons. A long period of freedom from loss or trouble from paying out money to dishonest presenters of checks is always sure to lead bank officers to neglect proper precautions, and to gradually slide into quite loose ways of doing business. And in this direction they sometimes run till suddenly brought up by the discovery of a forged endorsement, or by the revelation of the unpleasant fact that they have been paying, to dishonest parties, checks made payable to bearer which have been lost or stolen. Boston bank officers are sometimes charged with being too particular in the matter of endorsement of checks that come to them through the clearing house, or which are presented to them at the counter by responsible persons. Without doubt much more care is exercised in the matter of guarantees of endorsements in State street than New York. And we think the Boston ideas regarding the point are the most safe and sensible. No Boston bank will pay a check endorsed by attorney without having full knowledge that the person signing as attorney is duly authorized thus to act, or a special guarantee to this effect from some responsible party. And Boston banks are also very particular in requiring special and responsible guarantees for all apparent irregularities of endorsements. New York bankers sometimes take the ground that the last endorser guarantees all above him without any special certificate to that effect. Judge Story long ago ruled that such a position was untenable, and hence the course of action common among the State street banks.—Com. Bulletin.

XX.—Income Tax.

In the United States Circuit Court, Eastern District of Pennsylvania, Judge Strong has rendered a decision affirming the constitutionality of the income tax, and declaring that it is not a "capitation or other direct tax" in the sense in which the framers of the Constitution and the people of the States who adopted it, understood such taxes. As the question will come before the Supreme Court for final determination, Judge Strong thought it unadvisable to spread upon the record an argument, and filed no opinion giving the reasons that led him to his conclusions.

Judge Benedict, in the United States District Court, Eastern District of New York, has denied an application presented by Daniel

C. Robbins for an injunction restraining Collector Freeland from collecting the income tax assessed upon him. The ground of the application was that the tax was a direct tax, and thus unconstitutional; that the plaintiff has no remedy at law sufficient to indemnify him if the collector should be allowed to distrain and sell his property, and the plaintiff would thus be deprived of his property without due process of law. Without arguing the question of constitutionality, United States District Attorney Tracy for the defendant called the attention of the court to section 19 of the act of 1860, forbidding a suit to restrain the assessment or attention of taxes in any court, and submitted the case of Pullen v. Kissenger, Abbott's U. S, Reports, p. 94.

XXI.—Tax on State Stocks.

Secretary Boutwell recently referred to Attorney-General Akerman the question whether the State of Massachusetts is entitled to return of internal revenue tax paid on dividends, accruing to the State, as stockholder in the Boston and Albany Railroad. The Attorney-General in reply states that he does not understand the law to compel the Commissioner to refund the tax which he may judge to have been erroneously collected. He is authorized, not obliged, to refund; but representing a Government that abhors injustice, the Commissioner should refund in all cases of illegal collection, except where an apparent fault of the tax payer, or his acquiescence in them, constitute sufficient circumstances to discredit the claims. Whether such circumstances exist in this case is for the consideration of the Commissioner. The Attorney-General, after reviewing the action of several of his predecessors in cases of similar nature to the one before him, says that the conclusion is reached that dividends on State stocks were not subjected to tax, and informs the Secretary that he should assume that this tax was not legally collected.

XXII.—Executor and Administrator.

During the late war, an administrator having in his hands a distributive share belonging to one of the next of kin, residing in Illinois, upon being called upon by the District Court of the Confederate States to answer certain interrogatories propounded for the purpose of finding whether he had in hand any property liable to sequestration, without demur or further requisition, paid over to the receiver such distributive share, five months before he settled up the estate. Held, that he did not therein exhibit ordinary care, and therefore was still responsible to the next of kin for such share.—Fisher v. Ritchey.

We might here discuss what constitutes a good bank account, but have only space to remark that there are many business men who seem to think they keep a good bank account, who are really of so little profit to the bank that they would any day be politely asked to patronize some other concern if the interests of the bank were alone consulted. These unprofitable depositors often do a heavy business, and it sometimes seems as if the more they did the worse it was for their bank. Bank managers may easily add to our list of the infirmities of the depositors in question. They draw on their deposits by checks; they often overdraw; they make many errors of other kinds; they are always hungry for discounts at the lowest current rates; they want their checks on Kamtschatka or other distant parts collected for nothing and credited at once; they wish to borrow upon collaterals of a stripe unknown to anybody but themselves—and to do many other things of an objectionable character.—Com. Bulletin.

STATE BANK NOTES OUTSTANDING.

Official Statement of the Aggregate Amount of State Bank Notes Outstanding, October, 1870.

Maine	$ 48,124	West Virginia	$ 575
New Hampshire	23,051	Virginia	None
Vermont	26,286	Ohio	72,800
Massachusetts	302,667	Indiana	3,689
Rhode Island	161,604	Illinois	1,731
Connecticut	237,701	Michigan	1,066
New-York City	235,959	Iowa	2,176
New-York, Interior	442,969	Minnesota	1,395
New Jersey	112,055	Missouri (St. Louis)	535
Pennsylvania	307,371
Delaware	14,816	Total, Oct., 1870.	$2,138,546
Maryland	141,976

It will be observed that out of the above sum of $2,138,546, the outstanding issues of New England are about forty per cent. their bank circulation during the years 1860-1862, having been more active than that of other States.

The banks of the Confederate States having been wound up, no returns are made by them of circulation outstanding; although the percentage of lost and burnt bills in those States is probably larger than those of other States.

The above returns show the outstanding notes of about six hundred banks, out of several hundred millions issued during the fifty or sixty years prior to the passage of the "Ten per cent." act of July, 1866.

It is well known that during the years of 1812-1815, when there was no Bank of the United States in existence, and when the State bank circulation was the only one known to the country, there were numerous and large losses of bank notes by fire and water. Perhaps twenty per cent. of the aggregate loss was sustained in those years. When we consider the large amount issued by the State banks between the years 1800 and 1862, the present report of $2,138,546 shows how trifling the accidental destruction of bank notes has been

THE FRENCH LOAN OF 1871.

[FROM THE CORRESPONDENT OF THE "ECONOMIST."]

PARIS, June 29, 1871.

The new loan of two milliards [80,000,000*l.*] in 5 per cent. stock has been brought out more quickly than was expected. A public subscription was opened on Tuesday, June 27th, the price fixed being 80f 50c., payable 12f down, the rest in sixteen monthly instalments from the 21st of August, 1871, to the 21st of November, 1872, with 6 per cent. discount on those paid in advance. The subscription, it was intimated, would be closed as soon as the amount required was offered; but in no case would be kept open later than the 30th. In reality, a single day sufficed for it, and early yesterday (Wednesday) morning placards on the walls made known that it was closed. In the afternoon M. Pouyer-Quertier announced to the Assembly at Versailles the complete success of the operation. "The subscription commenced," said he, "at ten o'clock in the morning all over France, in all the offices of tax-gatherers, and in all the banks of Europe; even also in Bombay, Calcutta, and the towns of India." [This mention of India is represented in the parliamentary report to have caused "prolonged sensation"—it was occasioned by telegrams having been received from the agencies of the Comptoir d'Escompte at Bombay and Calcutta, stating that subscriptions had been made there.] "The success of the loan proves," continued the Minister, "how much abroad as at home immense confidence is felt in our unfortunate country, which successive and unmerited catastrophes have plunged into the most deplorable disasters. The figures, gentlemen, are eloquent in themselves; yesterday, in the space of six hours, we united in the name of France a sum of 4,500,000,000f (180,000,000*l*). Yes, four and a half milliards, that is double the sum we asked for." This drew forth loud expressions of enthusiasm. The Minister then declared that the result had been obtained without the Government "having employed any factitious means, or spent a penny on the Bourse, and that it was owing to the patriotic co-operation of the press, to the all-powerfulness of the credit of France, to the confidence she inspires to all Europe, and to her honesty, known in every part of the globe." At this there was more enthusiastic applause. The Minister then gave these details:—At Paris the subscription amounted to 2,500,000,000f; in the country to more than 1,000,000,000f; foreign countries to a little less than 1,000,000,000f. He remarked with pride that France had "the greater part in the honor of the loan," and declared that the success of it "exceeded the hopes of the Government, and would permit it to fulfil more rapidly than it had expected its engagements to Germany—to, in fact, do so much before the time imposed on it." The Chamber expressed its approbation in a most boisterous manner.

THE BRITISH CENSUS.

A Summary of the census of England, Scotland and Ireland has now been published, and the most general facts as to increase of population are as follows :—

	Population. 1861.	Population. 1871.	Increase.	Decrease.
England	20,066,224	22,704,108	2,637,884	..
Scotland	3,062,294	3,358,613	296,319	..
Ireland	5,798,967	5,402,759	..	396,208
			2,934,203
			396,208
The United Kingdom	28,927,485	31,465,480	2,537,995

This is the largest absolute increase of any decade in the century, and if England alone is taken, the rate of increase is almost as great as it has ever been. It is well known that the birth-rate has risen during the last decade, according to the estimates of population made by the Registrar-General. We called attention to this increase some time ago, intimating a doubt whether it was not merely apparent, caused by an under-estimate of population. But as the Registrar-General's estimates have been confirmed, the fact of the increasing birth-rate may be considered established. There is thus some probability of not only a larger increase of population during the next decade, but of a larger rate of increase, especially as the emigration from Ireland is checked.—London Economist, June, 1870.

British Emigration.—The increase of English emigration is the most noticeable fact in the report of the Emigration Commissioners for 1870, which has just been issued. The total emigration from the United Kingdom in that year was 256,940, a decrease of 1,087 as compared with 1869; but the decrease was exclusively in foreigners, the emigration of natives of the United Kingdom, and especially of England, have increased. The comparison of the two years is as follows :—

	1869.	1870.	Increase.
Emigrants from England	90,416	105,293	14,877
— Scotland	22,559	22,935	376
— Ireland	73,325	74,283	958
— the United Kingdom	186,300	202,511	16,211

Thus out of a total increase of 16,211 England counts for 14,877, and Scotland and Ireland for the remainder. England besides appears to be contributing an increasing share of the whole emigration from the United Kingdom.

For the daily price of gold from January, 1862, to December, 1869, see the Bankers' Almanac for 1871, pp. 186–192. * Tuesday, July 4, 1871, a Bank Holiday in New York.

THE LAW OF BANK CHECKS.

Correspondence of the Bankers' Magazine.

BANK OF ST. LOUIS, August, 1871.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE BANKERS' MAGAZINE:

We desire your opinion on the following question: Where a depositor draws a check on a bank, and he dies before the check is presented at the bank, the funds being on deposit to meet the demand, has the bank a right to refuse payment, knowing the drawer to be deceased? Cashier.

ANSWER.

This point in banking is discussed in "Morze's Treatise on Banking," page 260, where the writer says:

"The death of the drawer before presentment of the check, operates as an absolute revocation of the power of the bank to pay upon his check. At the instant of his death, the title to his balance rests in his legal representatives, and his own order is no longer competent to withdraw any part of that which is no longer his own property. It has been laid down in the text-books, quite generally, that if the payment be made by the bank in ignorance of the death of the drawer the bank will be protected. Doubtless this would be so held in equity if not in law."

See Treatise on Banks and Banking, by MORZE. 8vo, 1870.

NOTICES OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

I. TOWERS' Premium Tables for Buying and Selling Gold, Bonds and Stocks. Giving the premium on any amount from one dollar to ten thousand dollars, from one-eighth of one per cent. to twenty-five and seven-eighths per cent. Price three dollars.

These tables are admirably adapted for use by bankers and brokers. For instance, by turning to page marked 11 per cent. we find the premium on $19 in gold at $11\frac{7}{8}$ per cent. to be 2.25\frac{5}{8}$, or for $190, by adding the cipher, we have $22.56; or if we want to sell a $5,000 bond at $13\frac{5}{8}$ per cent. premium, we have $5,681.25-100 as the result.

It also gives the discount from par to $74\frac{1}{8}$ per cent. And if the interest is required on $400 for one year at $9\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum, we have $38, or for 60 days one-sixth of $38.

The publishers have received high commendations from New York Banks and others, which is proven by their not only using one copy but purchasing extra copies for several clerks.

Among the Banks who are now using "Towers' Premium Tables" are the following:

New York.—American Exchange National Bank, Merchants' Exchange National Bank, Shoe and Leather National Bank, Union Square National Bank, National Bank of Commerce, Commonwealth National Bank, St. Nicholas National Bank, Stuyvesant Bank, Bowery Savings Bank, Nassau Bank, Seamans' Savings Bank, Manhattan Savings Bank, National Park Bank, Union Dime Savings Bank.

Aurora.—Burglars made an attempt to rob the NATIONAL BANK at Aurora, Cayuga County, N. Y., Monday night, July 31st. The sheriff of the county noticed several suspicious looking individuals at Union Springs, and sent word to the bank president to be on his guard. The president placed a big bull dog in the bank, and sure enough he did so none too early. The burglars made their appearance Monday night. They had scarcely raised the rear window of the bank with a "jimmy" when the bull dog attacked them. The fellows did not wait an instant for the watchman to get up, but immediately made their escape in carriages, but left their tools behind them.

MISSOURI.—The completion of the Chicago and Southwestern road is evidently looked for with great interest by the people of the various cities about the great bend of the Missouri. A despatch from Leavenworth states that the Common Council of that city have granted the right of way through the city, and that the Mayor and a committee will visit Chicago. A despatch from Atchison also states that a proposition to vote $50,000 in 7 per cent. bonds to the Atchison branch of the Chicago and Southwestern Railroad was voted upon and carried by a majority of 7,000 votes. The road is to be commenced immediately, and completed by July, 1872. The main line to Leavenworth will be completed in about six weeks. This will give Chicago a direct connection with the Kansas City and Fort Scott road, now completed about 100 miles, and running directly south from Kansas City; also with the Leavenworth, Lawrence and Galveston road, over 100 miles of which are now in operation. The Atchison branch, which, it is believed, will be completed by next January instead of July, will give us a direct connection with the Atchison, Topeka and Sante Fe Railroad, which is now in progress, and also with the Atchison (Central) branch of the Union Pacific Railroad, which is now in operation to Waterville, 100 miles west of Atchison. The three last-mentioned roads have no direct Eastern connection at present—in fact, none at all except in an extremely roundabout way, which will be abandoned as soon as the Southwestern is completed.—Chicago Tribune.

MISSOURI.—THE CITIZENS SAVINGS BANK of St. Louis, organized under the general law of Missouri, transacts a general banking business, and draws on Europe. Among their correspondents are the following:—New York: GERMAN AMERICAN BANK; EUGENE KELLY & Co. New Orleans, La.: SOUTHERN BANK Chicago Ills.: HIBERNIAN BANKING ASSOCIATION. Cincinnati, Ohio: JOSEPH A. HEMANN & Co. Milwaukee Wis.: BANK OF COMMERCE. London: THE LONDON JOINT STOCK BANK; THE GERMAN BANK OF LONDON. Dublin: THE ROYAL BANK OF IRELAND. Chiavari, Italy: GHIO BROTHERS. Basle: J. RIGGENBACH.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—New Hampshire has reduced her debt, during the year ending in May, $427,000, and expects next year to lower it over $500,000. New Hampshire is well enough off as far as regards her State debt, but many of her towns, particularly those situated in the interior, and pretty much dependent upon the agricultural interest, are so loaded down with liabilities received between 1861 and 1865, in warding off drafts and helping along their soldiers. that their financial outlook is most discouraging. High taxes and land, together with the short seasons, are steadily depopulating many of the oldest towns in New Hampshire, and what New Hampshire loses the West and Southwest is gaining.

INDIANA.—Messrs. SMITH & HANNAMAN have established a banking house at Indianapolis, and offer to negotiate ten per cent. County, City and Corporation bonds, and negotiate 10 per cent. loans. Their

New York Correspondent in the NATIONAL EXCHANGE BANK, Chambers street, New York.

NEW YORK.—Mr. A. FORD WILLIAMS, 48 Pine street, invites correspondence, and solicits accounts of interior banks and bankers. Refers by permission to IRA HOLMES, President Manufacturers' National Bank, Chicago, THEO. P. HAUGHEY, President Indianapolis National Bank, Indianopolis, Ind., S. A. FLETCHER & Co., Bankers, Indianapolis, Ind.. the THIRD NATIONAL BANK, Cincinnati, Ohio. (See his card on the cover of this work.)

THE LEGAL-TENDER DECISION.

The American Law Times takes a gloomy view of the results of the decision in the legal-tender case recently rendered by the Supreme Court. It says: "Twelve months ago we ventured to express a conviction that the constitutionality of the legal-tender acts would be affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States, upon a rehearing. On an another page will be found the announcement that such a conclusion has been arrived at. That the question was examined most carefully, and with profound sincerity, there can be no doubt. It has been the subject of at least a year's reflection, deliberation, and research, and the decision may be taken, we think, as perhaps final. It is certainly conclusive for all present purposes, and will not be disturbed as long as the complexion of the court remains unchanged. The Constitution, which provides only that there shall be "a Supreme Court," leaves it in the power of Congress to increase the number of judges at pleasure. The strength of the court lies in its own virtue and the educated affection of the people. When it departs from the beaten path, and permits itself to consider questions of expediency or policy, it wanders at the mercy of the partizan and adventurer. Its ermine instead of a distinction becomes a reproach, and every element of its power is lost. It must take part in the Government only as an instrument of the other departments, or abandon its office altogether. Whatever may be said in favor of the present ruling, it cannot be doubted but that it has subjected the court to the most severe public criticism and sloped the way to the most unhappy disorders. We are willing to believe that the decision in Hepburn v. Griswold may have been faulty, but whatever its defects there is no power that can cloak the circumstances that have brought about its reversal, and no power that can disguise the glaring fact that a single twelvemonth has been sufficient to overturn the deliberate conclusion of a tribunal whose greatest strength has been a wise conservatism, and a continued labor to preserve a consistent and harmonious history. The decision now announced marks the beginning of departure from the venerated precedents of the past. The court will appeal in vain to the American people and the world, to continue to extend to it that cordial and sincere respect which has added so greatly to the efficiency of its promulgations. Hereafter its most careful action will be impugned, and the powerful and intemperate litigant will look upon its settled constructions as embarrassments which may be overcome by a resort to those agencies that are always open to corruption and intrigue. It is no longer a court of final appeal. It has itself pointed out a means of defeating the great object for which it was created, and its independence has passed from a right to a sufferance. It is with feelings of unaffected regret that we allude to the subject. Its lessons will be read with undisguised apprehension. The wealthy corporator will find in them some ground for a sinister delight, but the honest and unbiased thinker will see in them the beginning of a derangement which may be incurable.

THE MOSCOW DISCOUNT BANK, MOSCOW.

It would be a vast mistake to suppose that Russia is not making great material progress—a progress with which we in England can well sympathize. The Railway and emancipation policy of the Imperial Government is manifestly tending, amongst other measures, to enlarge the spheres of Russian commercial enterprise, and to promote the circulation of foreign productions among the people for their more extensive use or enjoyment.

One illustration of this policy will be found in the history of the Moscow Discount Bank, whose last balance-sheet will be found in another column. We need not point out how or why proper banking brings out and develops the industry and resources of a country and how it enables the land to be cultivated and its products to be moved to market. The Moscow Discount Bank is, by the fitting use of a moderate capital, doing this and even more. Started only at the beginning of last year, it has already, to its own considerable profit, been the means of enabling Russian producers to find better customers for their productions, and the consumers of Russian produce—among whom England is prominent—to derive benefits from increasing quantities and improving qualities. The authorised capital of the Bank is ten millions of roubles, of which two millions are paid up—that is, about £600,000—in shares of 200 roubles, or £25 each. The employment of the capital is confided to a direction well known in commercial circles in this country, and calculated to inspire the public with confidence. The Bank grants drafts payable in all native and foreign towns; makes advances on Stocks, Shares and interest-bearing Securities, as well as on bullion and merchandise; and receives deposits at call or on notice. In short, it carries on all kinds of banking business; and, as to its discounts, no establishment in Europe can be doing a safer business. It takes bills of two classes only—one where the bill possesses two or more endorsements, and the other where the bill has only one signature, but with collateral or additional security in Stocks or Shares. According to the balance-sheet, made up to the 31st January last, the bills then under discount amounted to upwards of seven millions and a-half of roubles, and the advances on Securities to nearly four millions and a-quarter of roubles; while the cash on hand or at call exceeded two millions and a-quarter.

Altogether, these assets, independently of a considerable amount of Government and other Stocks bearing interest, represent more than fourteen millions of roubles, against a liability on capital and deposits of about thirteen millions and a-half. So that, while the depositors and shareholders have their property intact and perfectly secured, there remains, in addition, a variety of other assets and credits. The aggregate amount of the bills discounted in 1870 was 20,400,000 roubles, or £3,060,000; and the profits of the whole business in 1870, after deducting all charges and losses, are returned at 491,704 roubles, or £73,750, being at the rate of about 14 per cent. on the paid-up capital. What the actual dividend will be cannot be known until the ensuing month of April, as it will not be declared before; but the progress made since justifies the expectation that the annual profits will steadily increase. It may be also mentioned that in the last nine months the Bank bought and sold, on account of its customers, bills to the amount of 6,170,000 roubles, which yielded a net commission of 36,500 roubles, or nearly $\frac{5}{8}$ per cent. It is not surprising, under these circumstances, that the Shares in the Bank, of 200 roubles, are now quoted in Moscow at 370 roubles, or 170 prem.

THE IRISH PARLIAMENT HOUSE.

The Irish Parliament formerly sat in Chichester House, Dublin, a mansion which had belonged to the ennobled family of that name. In 1728 this edifice had fallen into a dangerous state of decay, and was consequently demolished, and a new house erected on the site. The new edifice was described by an English artist of the last century as "the grandest, most extensive and most convenient of the kind in Europe." The same writer describes the House of Lords in session as presenting a scene of picturesque grandeur, and adds that "the Viceroy on his throne appears with more splendor than His Majesty himself on the throne of England." The Viceroy's visits to the Parliament House were conducted with all the pomp and state of royalty.

Up to 1759 the Irish Parliament had nothing to boast in the way of oratory. Mr. Helly Hutchinson, afterwards Lord Donoughmore, entered the House in that year, and a brilliant period commenced.

In 1792 the House of Commons was entirely consumed, and rebuilt in a form which deviated considerably from the original fine design. The union question was first debated in 1799. On Saturday, June 7, 1800, the act of union was finally read and passed. The Habeas Corpus act was at that time suspended and the entire country under military government. Of 278 sitting members of Parliament, the minority against the union numbered 120, while of those who voted in its favor but seven are said to have been free from corrupt influences. A number of peers entered their formal protest on the books of the House, protesting against the union; and, though in some instances, needy men were proof against the handsome offers held out to them. The late Duke of Wellington was one of the last survivors of the members of the Irish House of Commons. The last of all was Sir Thomas Staples.

The Parliament House is now the Bank of Ireland. The chandelier of the House of Commons hangs in the examination hall of Trinity College, Dublin. The chair of the Speaker of the House of Lords is possessed by the Royal Irish Academy, and that of the Speaker of the Commons is in the board room of the Royal Dublin Society, formerly the dining-room of Leinster House. The Right Hon. John Foster, the Speaker, declined to surrender his mace to the government, saying, that until the body that intrusted it to his keeping demanded it, he would preserve it for them. It is now in the possession of his descendant, Lord Massarene, who is married to the daughter of Mr. Whyte Melville, the novelist. The House of Lords remains exactly as it was. The very cushions are the same. It is now used as the bank board room, and when the edifice was leased to the governor and company of the bank it was expressly stipulated that this chamber was always to remain in statu quo.

It is a large, lofty, oak-pannelled apartment, with some fine tapestry, representing the Irish battles of William the Third, upon the walls, and resembles the halls of the great companies in the city of London. One pensioner of the old Irish parliamentary establishment still survives—the housemaid.

The Bank of Ireland, like the Bank of England, is always guarded night and day by a detachment of soldiers. In London this duty is performed exclusively by the Guards; in Dublin, where only, apart from London and Windsor, there is always a regiment of the "household brigade," they take it in turn with others. I went all over the roofs, and found it quite strongly fortified with bullet-proof palisading and loop-holes at commanding points. Probably extra precautions were adopted when the Fenians were to the fore. Touching these said Fenians well-informed people here attribute their quiescence at present mainly to the discomfiture of the French by the Prussians.

NOTES ON THE MONEY MARKET.

New York, August 22, 1871.

Exchange on London, at sixty days' sight, 108½ @ 108¾ for gold.

THERE are remarkable features in the money market of July and August, which will long be remembered by both lenders and borrowers. We have often heard of money being "a drug;" it is proverbially so at present. The oldest operators in Wall Street do not remember a period when money was so abundant, as at this time. There have been large transactions on call, during the month, at the rate of two and three per cent. per annum, on strictly first-class collaterals. At the same time, the banks keep up their loan columns at six and seven per cent. The banks of this city have enlarged their volume of loans to 304 millions, having sold their gold from 19 millions down to 10 millions.

Another remarkable feature of the month, is the depressed rate of foreign bills. Bankers' bills on London, which a month since were quoted at 110⅛ to 110⅜, are this week abundant at 108½ to 108¾, while at the same time, the demand for gold in Wall Street is such as to enable holders to realize from ½ to ¼ per cent. PER DAY. The truth is that the foreign indebtedness of our importers has drained the country of so much gold, that there is not enough for the current operations of the Street. There are millions of paper currency, but only thousands in gold; while capitalists can borrow at two and three per cent. miscellaneous borrowers rarely obtain loans under six or seven. Commercial paper is sought by country banks through their Wall Street agents at the latter rates; and frequently get good paper at 7, 8, and 9. The following are the ruling quotations this week:

	Per Cent.
Loans on call—Government collaterals	3 @4
Commercial first-class indorsed paper, 60 days	4½@5

The foreign export of gold from this port has already reached the sum of fifty-three millions since the 1st January last, in liquidation of the heavy indebtedness for foreign goods, and to meet the extraordinary wants of the thousands of Americans now traveling in Europe. This latter drain amounts to forty or fifty millions of dollars a year. The export for 7½ months of each year since 1854, has been as follows:

Year.		Year.		Year.

The bank movement for August shows further expansion of loans. The National banks of New York city are fifty-three in number, with a cash capital of $73,235,000. The State banks are twenty-five in number, with a capital of $14,000,000, making in all seventy-nine banks, with a combined capital of $87,235,000. The loans this year range from 263 to 304 millions, which is largely in excess of 1869 and 1870. The comparative liabilities and assets since January, 1867, have been as follows :—

The great feature of the year, is the negotiation of the United States loan in Europe, through the agency of the Government bankers. The Secretary of the Treasury, by circular to the agents heretofore appointed to negotiate the new loan, has revoked the authority to receive subscriptions for four per cent., and four and a half per cent. Bonds in combination with the five per cents., thus leaving open only the opportunity to the banks to take $50,000,000 of the five per cents., as in his circular of last Thursday. That is to say, the Treasury leaves Messrs. Jay Cooke & Co. to carry out their contract with reference to the $130,000,000, without the competition of any other class of Government obligations. This was desirable until the whole amount of the $130,000,000 is out of the way. We are now able to give the names composing the American Syndicate, co-opertaing with Messrs. Jay Cooke & Co., and also a number of those in the European Syndicate, to which will be added, by mail, several important firms whose subscriptions are telegraphed in the aggregate. The American Syndicate is composed of: Messrs. Jay Cooke & Co., New York, Philadelphia, and Washington; Messrs. Fisk & Hatch, New York; Messrs. Vermilye & Co., New York; Messrs. Henry Clews & Co., New York; Messrs. Leonard, Sheldon & Foster, New York; First National Bank, New York; Fourth National Bank, New York; First National Bank, Philadelphia; First National Bank, Washington. And this syndicate subscribes now for ten millions in the new five per cent. bonds. The European names, so far, are the following: Messrs. Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., London; Messrs. R. Raphael & Sons, London; Messrs. Bischoffsheim & Goldschmitt, London; Messrs. Louis Cohen & Sons, London; Messrs. Clews, Habicht & Co., London; Messrs. Speyer Brothers, London; Messrs. Seligman Brothers, London; The Anglo-Hungarian Bank, London; Messrs. P. Cazenove & Co., London; Messrs. Samuel Montague & Sons, London; Messrs. Foster & Braithwaite, London; Messrs. Satterthwaite & Co., London; Messrs. Seligman & Stettheimes, Frankfort; Messrs. L. Speyer Ellison, Frankfort; Messrs. Emil Erlanger & Co., Frankfort; Messrs. Lippmann, Rosenthal & Co., Amsterdam; Messrs. Wertheim & Gompertz, Amsterdam; Messrs. Behrens & Sons, Hamburg; Messrs John Monroe & Co., Paris; Messrs. Andrews & Co. Paris; Messrs. Oppenheim, Errera & Co., Brussels; and Mr. S. Bleichroeder, Berlin. The subscription of this European Syndicate is for Fifteen Millions. With the subscriptions of these syndicates, and the Twenty Millions taken from his surplus Gold, the Secretary will be able to announce his readiness to redeem forty-five millions of five-twenties of 1862, at par and interest in coin; the interest ceasing, according to law, ninety days after designation for payment. And with this as a beginning, we have no doubt that the exchange of bonds will go forward rapidly.

The National banks of Boston are fifty in number, with a combined capital of over $48,000,000 and surplus profits, in October last, $12,872,576. The loans are steady at 119 millions. We annex the returns for 1867-1871:
